

Café Conversation Citizen Engagement Event
January 11, 2018, 6:00pm – 8:30pm
Kiwanis Recreation Center, 352 Devers Street

Purpose

The City of Fayetteville hosted a Café Conversation citizen engagement event on Thursday, January 11, 2018, at the Kiwanis Recreation Center on Devers Street. The purpose of the event was to gather public opinion on how the City has performed in the last year in relation to the City's six strategic goals and to identify those strategic goal objectives on which the City should concentrate in the coming year. Over 50 residents participated. All City Council districts were represented as were all age groups of citizens. There was also diversity within the group as to the length of time participants had lived in Fayetteville. (See Appendix A)

The Strategic Goals

Goal I: Safe and Secure Community

Goal II: Diverse and Viable Economy

Goal III: High Quality Built Environment

Goal IV: Desirable Place to Live, Work, and Recreate

Goal V: Sustainable Organizational Capacity

Goal VI: Citizen Engagement and Partnerships

Methodology

Residents were given a brief overview of the City of Fayetteville's strategic planning process and the City's six strategic goals before being electronically polled to gather their opinions on how the City has performed in the last year in relation to those goals. Residents were asked, per goal, if they agreed or disagreed that overall the City is meeting the goal, if the City is moving in the right direction to achieve the goal, and if the City is meeting resident expectations in relation to the goal. In the second half of the event, each resident was asked to review the strategic goals and the related goal objectives and then to prioritize the three goal objectives on which the City should focus its efforts in the coming year. Each resident was also asked to brainstorm one project per prioritized goal objective that he/she would like to see accomplished in the next year. Residents were then asked to collaborate at their tables to develop a three item list per table of prioritized goal objectives and associated projects. These table lists were then posted in the room and residents were asked to indicate visually with an adhesive dot which project, out of all the projects developed by the table groups, was their highest priority project.

Past Performance Results

Residents thought the City was moving in the right direction on five of the six strategic goals. Fifty-four percent of participants felt the City was moving in the wrong direction in relation to Goal III, maintaining a high quality built environment. The majority of participants agreed that we have a safe and secure community (Goal I), that we have sustainable organizational capacity (Goal V), and that we maintain strong, active community connections (Goal VI). The majority disagree that we have a diverse and viable economy (Goal II), that we have a high quality built environment (Goal III), and that Fayetteville is a desirable place to live, work and recreate (Goal IV). Participants indicated the City is meeting or exceeding expectations in all areas except a diverse and viable economy (Goal II), and maintaining a high quality built environment (Goal III). (See Appendix B)

Priorities for the Future

Looking at where participants would like the City to concentrate resources in the coming year, Goal I, Objective A was prioritized as the most important objective on which to focus. This objective speaks to reducing crime and improving the public's perception of safety in the community. Projects connected to this goal and objective focused on increasing police presence and patrols in neighborhoods, reducing crime, and better intergovernmental collaboration. Second in priority was Goal II, Objective C. This objective deals with job creation and retention, job training, and per capita income. Projects listed for this objective spoke to creating more jobs and better paying jobs, retention of talent in the community, and better intergovernmental cooperation. Third in priority was Goal IV, Objectives A which deals with quality of life issues such as recreational and cultural opportunities. Participants expressed an interest in seeing increased recreational opportunities and in utilizing green spaces, trails, and recreational assets as tools for neighborhood revitalization. Other Goal / Goal Objectives receiving some priority notice from participants were Goal IV, Objective C, Goal IV, Objective F, Goal 3, Objective C, Goal 2 Objective D, Goal 2, Objective B, and Goal 3, Objective A.

Analysis

The results of the Café Conversation citizen engagement event align with the City's vision of a peaceful, prosperous, and connected community. Participants continue to focus on safety and job prospects as key issues in the community followed closely by leisure activities. It is interesting to note that the majority of comments dealing with public safety did not focus on reducing crime, but rather on the visibility of police personnel in the neighborhoods and the perception of safety in the community. In terms of the economy, residents are overwhelmingly concerned with job growth in higher wage industries than currently exist in the community and increased diversity of the tax base. A key recurring theme connected to both safety and the economy was improved intergovernmental collaboration. Participants recognize that it will take effort from the City, the County, the school system, and Fort Bragg in order for the community to achieve its vision. Quality of life for all residents was evident in the emphasis attendees put on maintaining a clean, beautiful community with adequate green spaces. Participants also indicated a desire for increased walkability within the City, both in the form of sidewalks and walking trails.

Participants were asked if the stated vision of the City encompassed all aspects of their individual visions for Fayetteville and 75% agreed that it did. The one element participants noted that could be more evident in the City's vision is inclusiveness. This is reflected in a desire by many participants to see the City do more for its economically challenged residents in the form of neighborhood revitalization, increased availability of affordable housing, and a continued effort to end homelessness in the community. (See Appendix C)

The key themes expressed this year by participants were identical to those expressed last year; however, participants were decidedly more negative in their views of how the City is doing in achieving its strategic goals. This may indicate that residents feel the City is not doing enough, or not moving quickly enough, to address clearly articulate resident priorities. (See Appendix D)
